

A competency-based training program to treat complex brain disorders

AZRIELI BRAIN MEDICINE FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

A Novel Fellowship Program:

The Brain Medicine Fellowship offers a unique opportunity to delve into the complexities of brain disorders through an integrated and interdisciplinary approach. Examples include traumatic brain injury, neurodegenerative diseases, affective disorders, psychosis, vascular brain diseases, functional neurological disorders and other complex brain disorders including those responsive to the burgeoning field of neuromodulation.

The program is designed to equip trainees with interdisciplinary skills necessary to tackle complex brain disorders. Fellows will explore clinical and research questions surrounding impaired affect, behavior, and cognition.

What you will experience as a fellow in this program:

Clinical Exposure: Gain competencies across various brain medicine disciplines including psychiatry, geriatric medicine, neurology, neurosurgery, physical medicine & rehabilitation.

Academic Engagement: Complete an academic project related to brain medicine, under the mentorship of internationally renowned experts.

The University of Toronto offers the ideal environment, given the breadth of world-renowned expertise represented across brain diseases. A fellowship certificate in Brain Medicine from the University of Toronto will be awarded upon successful completion of the fellowship.

Program Details:

Duration: Typically 1-2 years (competency based)

Start Date: July 1 annually (alternative dates negotiable)

Compensation: $100,000 CAD per year with additional eligibility for unique Brain Medicine Research and Catalyst Funds to support academic work

Eligibility: Candidates must have completed a residency training program in one of: geriatric medicine, neurology, neurosurgery, physical medicine & rehabilitation, care of the elderly, or psychiatry programs (Canadian and International Medical Graduates welcome)
